Relationship between Education and Wage Inequality in Thailand: A Quantile Regression Analysis

My presentation sheds light on the relationship between educational attainment and income inequality in central Thailand. Our study, conducted from 2009 to 2018, employs Mincerian wage equations and quantile regression to reveal the improvement in wage distribution as a result of enhanced educational levels. Join us to gain insights into the dynamics of within-groups and between-groups inequalities and the changes in the wage gap over time.
