Ritsumeikan University

The Ritsumeikan Charter

Ritsumeikan traces its roots to Prince Saionji's private academy of the same name, established in 1869. It was officially founded in 1900 by his protégé, Kojuro Nakagawa, as the Kyoto Hosei Gakko (Kyoto School of Law and Politics), later to take on the name "Ritsumeikan." The name is derived from a passage in the Jinxin chapter of the Discourses of Mencius, and means "a place to establish one's destiny through cultivating one's mind."

"Ritsumeikan's founding ideals are "freedom and innovation" and reflecting upon its wartime experience, it committed itself to a core educational philosophy of "peace and democracy" after World War II.

Ritsumeikan has faced the challenges of the times by pursuing an independent path to rise above adversity and has become the comprehensive private educational institution that it is today through extensive cooperation and support from both within and outside Japan.

Ritsumeikan, as a Japanese institution located in the Asia Pacific region, is committed to sincerely reflecting upon history and to building an institution where many cultures coexist in the spirit of international mutual understanding.

Ritsumeikan will build relationships of trust, through research and education, as well as sports and cultural activities, and establish its roots in the local community, to create an academic institution open to international society.

Ritsumeikan will strive to strengthen links with society and promote its institutional development by fully utilizing the characteristics of a private academic institution, the participation of its faculty, staff and students, and the support of alumni and parents, while respecting the principles of autonomy, democracy, transparency, non-violence and justice.

Ritsumeikan will pursue the creation of universal values based on academic freedom and search for solutions to the pressing issues facing humankind, with its educational endeavors based on its founding spirit and educational ideals, bearing in mind "to believe in the future, to live for the future."

Ritsumeikan will foster learning and the development of individual talents in order to nurture just and ethical global citizens.

Ritsumeikan, as an institute of education and research, pledges to promote peace, democracy and sustainable development in Japan and throughout the world, in keeping with the spirit of this Charter.

The Ritsumeikan University Undergraduate Educational Mission and Vision

Ritsumeikan University seeks to promote both rigorous scholarship and individual insights while nurturing just and ethical global citizens. Based upon the university's founding ideals of Freedom and Innovation and its core educational philosophy of Peace and Democracy, this educational mission furthers our core commitment to, in the words of the great Ritsumeikan postwar chancellor Hiroshi Suekawa, encouraging students to "believe in the future, live for the future."

Faculty and staff within the various offices and departments of Ritsumeikan University work closely together to support the individualized learning and development of its many students from a diverse array of backgrounds, empowering those students who are the agents in the process of "Creating a Future Beyond Borders."

Ritsumeikan University is committed to establishing an inclusive learning community. Its members are to learn together and to push one another to excel while they enjoy a comprehensive student experience that encompasses both academic and extracurricular activities. Bachelor's degree program graduates are expected to demonstrate the following four key skills:

- (1) Embrace the values of Peace and Democracy by respecting the diverse values held by others and by emphasizing communication and cooperation;
- (2) Innovate existing frameworks and break down restrictive borders by applying the global and local perspectives acquired from a broad general education and studies in a specialized major field, even as they seek out and attempt to solve the problems facing human society, following the values of Freedom and Innovation;
- (3) Think and act in a responsible manner based on an awareness of their own individual roles in society and issues discovered within their own lives;
- (4) Take actions stemming from lifelong learning as the greatest expression of believing in the future and living for the future.

I Human Resources Development Aims & Educational Goals

1. Human Resources Development Aims

The aim of the College of Global Liberal Arts (GLA) is to train people who can identify the problems in our increasingly global society in a practical way, take a lead in the solution of those problems and continue their studies to be able to achieve this. These people will possess an insight into the diversity of human society and take a global overview of human history, they will act based on a keen sense of ethics and will have ample skills of verbalization and visualization and an innovative imagination regarding future society that is based on the advances in science and technology. This will be achieved through education and research on the humanities and social sciences and through experiences and independent learning that cross various borders in Japan, Australia and the various other societies of Asia.

2. Educational Goals

[Knowledge and understanding]

- To acquire wide-ranging knowledge on the diversity of human society and the plural paths of the history of the humanity and to be able to understand these using the methodology of the humanities and social sciences.
- To be able to understand the diversity of the modern world and of the various societies of Asia in particular based on empirical knowledge.
- To acquire knowledge on the social meaning of the progress of science and new technologies in the contemporary world and to be able to understand this by returning to the various basic theories of the humanities and social sciences.

[Thinking and judgment]

- To be able to think logically and critically to form individual opinions.
- To be able to evaluate moral values in various social contexts, consider how different ethical viewpoints can be taken in cases where there is conflict in ethical interpretation and contemplate better options for action.
- To be able to identify problems and derive solutions based on pluralistic viewpoints and intellectual originality.
- To be able to make strategic judgments to encourage cooperation that overcomes conflicts of interest and opinion.

[Interest, motivation and attitude]

- To have high aspirations and a fighting spirit to be able to independently tackle social issues as a citizen with a sense of responsibility and a strong will to overcome difficulties.
- To be able to respect and cooperate with different cultures, values and standpoints.
- To be able to work on research with ethical awareness and practically integrated awareness regarding the relationship between intellect and society.
- To have the sense of leadership necessary for problem solving and to be able to engage in the issues cooperatively.

[Skill and expression]

- To learn the wide range of techniques that are necessary for the appropriate collection and analysis of information, including reading comprehension, quantitative literacy and information literacy, and to be able to use these techniques effectively in research.
- To have the language proficiency, design competency, and multimedia proficiency that are the communication techniques necessary for the expression of individual intelligence and effective academic communication.

3. Joint Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the dual degree program in Global Liberal Arts and Asia-Pacific Affairs, graduates will be able to:

1. Understand the unique value of employing concepts and methods from a global liberal arts perspective to explore the new challenges posed by a rapidly changing transnational world.
2. Use a global liberal arts conceptual approach to understand the transnational forces and processes underlying the contemporary challenges in Asia-Pacific Affairs.
3. Identify and understand the main political, cultural, economic and diplomatic challenges impacting the Asia-Pacific and their inter-connectedness.
4. Critically evaluate the various existing strategies aimed at promoting stable and just

4. Curriculum Policy (Curriculum Organization and Implementation Policy) political communities through maintaining peace between states and managing conflict within states.

5. Creatively develop innovative strategies to foster cooperation and address the potential social needs for sustainable societies at various levels.

In order to achieve the human resources development aims and educational goals described above, GLA will realize its distinguishing characteristics by organizing the curriculum based on the following five principles.

- 1) To comprehensively learn the study of the liberal arts in a manner suitable for the globalized world

The global liberal arts curriculum offered by GLA uses the cultivation of learning rooted in the humanities and social sciences and mutual interaction between "different cultures" such as different countries, regions, genders, generations, languages, religions and values, so that it: a) inherits the essential nature of the liberal arts with regards to the development of tolerant moral excellence to enable coexistence and cooperation with people, societies and cultures that are different to oneself, whilst it also, b) reexamines the views of the world and understanding of history that were presumed by the conventional liberal arts in a wider and deeper context to open students to alternative viewpoints, and, c) uses an insight into the mutual interaction between society and various knowledge, to be able to approach the various issues for modern society with practical and creative problem solving. The structure is set so that the students must conduct balanced study of each of subject groups to graduate. In addition, what is learnt there is summarized in a practical and applied manner in the Advanced Courses subject group.

- 2) To acquire the ability to think logically and critically, the ability to make ethical judgments and the academic skills that form the foundation for the identification and solution of problems

The study of the liberal arts connects to a wide range of postgraduate education from professional fields to academic fields and develops human resources with more specialized problem identification and solution skills. Through the Introductory Courses in particular, in addition to cultivating logical and critical thinking skills and moral judgment skills, there is also wide ranging and phased study of research techniques and methodology with a focus on the humanities and social sciences. Finally, in the Advanced Courses, the ability to use those skills practically and comprehensively is improved.

- 3) To improve the ability to cooperate in multicultural societies

GLA accepts students from various different cultural backgrounds, particularly from Japan, Australia and the various regions of Asia. Most courses are conducted in English and also a multicultural study community is formed throughout the regular classes and extracurricular activities to develop multicultural cooperation capabilities. Furthermore, through cooperation with the Australian National University, a curriculum structure is realized that builds up "experiences that cross various borders in the various societies of Asia," as stated in the human resources development aims, and more deeply and more certainly realizes the educational goal of "to be able to understand the diversity of the modern world and of the various societies of Asia in particular based on empirical knowledge."

- 4) To acquire the ability to set themes independently and with originality and also to effectively communicate research results

The basic format is a course in which lectures and tutorials are combined, while some courses are provided as "seminar" with flipped learning style. The upper limit for the seminars and tutorials will be set to 25 students to pursue study in small groups with active learning. Also, Advisors will be assigned to support the study at the Academic Advising Center of GLA. An environment will be prepared so that the students can confirm their own development, set their own learning goals and take steps to make the learning easier. Also, a wide range of opportunities will be prepared to nurture the ability to communicate information at each level of study, with the Advanced Courses at the top (by developing PBL type classes and opportunities for project type regular classes and extracurricular activities).

5. Diploma Policy (Degree Conferment Policy)

- 5) To pursue the significance of studying in Japan as part of the world/Asia
At GLA, a minimum of two to three years of the four years of study are spent learning in Japan. In addition to providing opportunities for international students to learn Japanese, a curriculum will be developed that has subjects related to research on Japan developed within the framework of the global liberal arts and deepens the understanding of Japanese history, culture and society in a global context, where both the students from Japan and the international students acquire the learning necessary to support their ability to communicate information to the world from Japan or via Japan and their experiences learning in Japan can be used as assets for their career development. Efforts will also be made to achieve the objectives above by utilizing the location and superior facilities of the OIC campus of the University, which has the campus concept of being a "Gateway to Asia."

To achieve the human resources development aims and based on the educational goals, GLA sets the abilities that the students should have mastered by the time of their graduation to be the following. When the student has acquired the credits prescribed for each subject and the total credits prescribed (124 credits), it will be viewed that the human resources development aims have been achieved based on systematic study and a bachelor's degree (Global Liberal Arts) will be conferred.

[Knowledge and understanding]

- To acquire wide-ranging knowledge on the diversity of human society and the plural paths of the history of the humanity and to be able to understand these using the methodology of the humanities and social sciences.

6. Achievement Goals by Year

Year 1

- To acquire basic knowledge regarding the diversity of human society and the plural paths of the history of the humanities

- To learn the basic methodologies used in the humanities and social sciences.
- To acquire the ability to engage in intellectual conversations premised on the existence of differing viewpoints with an awareness of logical and critical thinking, and to engage in intellectual production in collaboration with others on assigned topics.
- To acquire the basic ability to appropriately collect and analyze information, and effectively express the results.

Year 2

- To acquire a basic understanding of the diversity of the modern world, and of the various societies of Asia in particular, based on empirical knowledge.
- To acquire a grounding in a specific discipline based on the student's interests, on a foundation of basic knowledge of and methodologies used in the humanities and social sciences.
- To be able to engage in creative, intellectual production in collaboration with others in a multicultural environment.
- To be able to utilize basic skills for appropriately collecting and analyzing information and effectively expressing the results.

Year 3

- To be able to utilize knowledge and skills in the humanities and social sciences and knowledge related to science and technology in order to analyze actual issues in the contemporary world.
- To be able to engage in creative intellectual work that is theoretical, critical, ethical and collaborative in the context of an actual multicultural society.
- To be able to utilize basic skills for appropriately collecting and analyzing information and effectively expressing the results, and to improve one's own intellectual production through interactions with others.

Year 4

- To acquire the necessary knowledge in the humanities and social sciences to earn the bachelor's degree and develop an academic understanding of the diversity of the modern world, and of the various societies of Asia in particular, as well as of the contemporary social significance of new science and technology.
- To be able to creatively identify and solve problems in the context of pluralistic values while demonstrating adequate logical and critical thinking skills and ethical judgment as an intellectual producer holding a bachelor's degree.
- To be able to independently engage in social issues while collaborating with others with an appropriate awareness of leadership and citizenship responsibilities in an actual multicultural society.
- To be able to practically utilize skills for the appropriate collection and analysis of information as well as the communication skills necessary for effectively expressing one's own intellectual activities at a level suitable to qualify for a bachelor's degree.

II Curriculum

1. Degree Requirements

Students must meet all of the following requirements to graduate from GLA and earn a Bachelor of Global Liberal Arts.

- (1) Students must enroll for at least eight (8) semesters.
- (2) Students must complete all requirement groups with sufficient credits and courses.
- (3) Students must complete all compulsory courses with a grade of C or higher.
- (4) Students must earn at least 124 credits.

2. Credit Required for Graduation

See TABLE 1 below for the number of credits required for each requirement group.

To earn degrees from RU and ANU under the Dual Degree program, students must fulfill the individual graduation requirements for both universities. The Dual Degree agreement enables credit transfer between RU and ANU to fulfill both universities' degree requirements. Contact the Academic Advising Center for more details.

For the number of credits required to graduate from ANU, see "III Dual Degree Program."

TABLE 1: Credits required to graduate from GLA

Subject Group	Credits Required
Foundation Courses	12 RU credits (All compulsory)
Introductory Courses	8 RU credits or more
Special Lectures	0 credits or more
Intermediate Courses	6 RU credits or more
Advanced Courses	4 credits or more (fulfilled by taking 2 research seminars for 1 year)
Japanese Language Courses	0 credits or more
Others	0 credits or more
Total	124 credits or more

3. Criteria for Issuing Certificates of Prospective Graduation

A Certificate of Prospective Graduation indicates a student's anticipated graduation date and may be necessary for events such as job interviews and graduate school applications. Students who meet criteria (1) – (3) below can request the Certificate of Prospective Graduation from the on-campus kiosk or multifunction printers at convenience stores.

Students with questions about certificates and/or special requests should contact the Manabi Station in the AC office, the 1st floor of Building A, or oi-cert@st.ritsumeai.ac.jp.

[Issuance Criteria]

- (1) Students must be currently enrolled in the 7th semester or beyond.
The "Semester" displayed on the "Course Registration, and Grade Status" page on CAMPUS WEB must be the 7th semester or beyond (check the semester in the "Course Registration and Grade Status" by logging into CAMPUS WEB from manaba+R).
- (2) Students' status must be "Enrolled" or "Study Abroad" on CAMPUS WEB.
The Certificate of Prospective Graduation cannot be issued if the students' status is "Leave of Absence."
- (3) Students must have earned the number of credits specified in TABLE 2 below for the respective period.
If a student is enrolled in their 8th semester or later, the anticipated graduation date given on the certificate will vary depending on the number of earned credits (students cannot choose their anticipated graduation date).

TABLE 2: Credits required for issuing Certificates of Prospective Graduation

Certificate Request Period	Number of earned credits at the end of the previous semester	Graduation date on certificates
From the first day to the last day of the 7 th semester	81 credits or less	Certificates will not be issued.
	82 credits or more	The graduation date of the following semester
From the first day to the last day of the 8 th semester or beyond	81 credits or less	Certificates will not be issued.
	From 82 credits to 102 credits	The graduation date of the following semester
	103 credits or more	Graduation date of the current semester

Note: Due to system maintenance, certificates cannot be issued for the first few days after the first day of each semester.

[Graduation Dates for each semester]

Spring semester: Day of Autumn Equinox Holiday

Fall Semester: March 20

4. RU Course Credit Cap

A standard academic course load per semester at GLA is 16 credits. The following Semester Credit Cap ensures students' quality learning, strong academic performance, and timely graduation.

(1) Students before the Academic & English Hurdle Assessment (usually until the second semester)

Standard Semester Credit Cap	19 credits
Credit Cap after Course Overload	21 credits

(2) Students who passed the Academic & English Hurdle (usually from the third semester on the standard learning schedule)

Standard Semester Credit Cap	11 credits
Credit Cap after Course Overload	13 credits

- The standard credit cap for RU courses per semester is 11 after students pass the Academic & English Hurdle. This is because students will begin taking ANU courses in addition to RU courses at that time (see "III Dual Degree Program" > "5. Hurdles" for details).
- Students cannot register for RU courses during their study periods at ANU in Canberra.
- Students are responsible for registering for ANU courses in addition to RU courses through ANU's Interactive Student Information System (ISIS). ANU courses are not included in the RU credit cap since the ANU credit cap will be determined separately.
- If students choose NOT to take ANU courses in a semester due to extenuating circumstances, they may register for RU courses worth a maximum of 19 credits. If students choose to take one ANU course only, they may register for RU courses worth a maximum of 15 credits. In either case, since such decisions may result in a delay of graduation and/or other consequences, students must submit a formal request to the Academic Advising Center for approval.
- "Thesis" is not included in the semester credit cap.

(3) Students withdrawing from the dual degree program

Standard Semester Credit Cap	21 credits
------------------------------	------------

- The number described above applies to all semesters until graduation for single degree students.
- See "III Dual Degree Program" > "8. Single Degree Track" for information on changing to the Single Degree track.
- Thesis is not included in the semester credit cap.

5. Academic Warning

GLA students are on Academic Warning status when their most recent semester grade point average is less than 2.50.

A student on Academic Warning must meet with an advisor to discuss his/her academic standing. The advisor will help plan a course schedule and holistically assist the student in improving their performance. A student on Academic Warning will not be able to register for the next semester's courses, except for the auto-registered compulsory courses, until the meeting is completed. A student will be able to self-register after the meeting.

6. Course Overload Policy

Objective of the Course Overload

The study at the GLA is strongly premised on ensuring each student's academic progress of each student according to his/her long-term learning goals in the college's sequential curriculum. In order to provide a wide variety of opportunities for students to explore their academic interests, a course overload may be granted based on the following conditions and procedures.

- (1) Cohort A students are not eligible for course overload during the first semester of their study at GLA. Cohort B students can apply for the course overload from their first semester at OIC (presumably their 3rd semester in the dual degree program).
- (2) To request an overload, students must satisfy all of the criteria below.
 - Students must have earned at least 16 credits or more in the preceding semester.
 - Students must have achieved an RU GPA of 3.0 or higher (out of 5.0) in the preceding semester. Cumulative GPA is not used in the evaluation process.

Preceding Semester	Required Credits from the Preceding Semester	Required GPA from the Preceding Semester
RU courses only	16 credits	3.00 based on the RU courses
RU courses and ANU courses	16 credits, including ANU units converted to RU credits	3.00 based on the RU courses
ANU courses only	16 credits, converted from ANU units to RU credits.	5.00 based on the ANU courses

(6 units at ANU is equivalent to 4 credits at RU)

<Requirement for Cohort B students applying for an overload in their first semester at RU>

- Students must have earned the ANU units equivalent to the RU 16 credits.
 - Students must have achieved an RU GPA of 3.0 or higher (out of 5.0) converted from the ANU GPA in the preceding semester at ANU.
- (3) An academic advisor will review students' overload applications to ensure they meet the requirements above.
 - (4) This policy is effective on March 1, 2020, and applicable to students admitted in AY 2020 or later.

7. Grade Appeal Policy

The GLA Grade Appeal Policy applies to all students within the College of Global Liberal Arts. Students may appeal a final course grade by submitting a form of grade appeals. All student information will be handled in a manner that protects student privacy and confidentiality in accordance with The Ritsumeikan Trust Personal Information Protection Basic Policy.

[Appeal Procedure]

Details are available on the GLA website.

- (1) Students who wish to make an appeal against their final grade, and instructors who respond to the students' appeal, must complete each procedure by the due date set by the college in advance.
- (2) The appeal process will be conducted entirely by email using the prescribed forms.
- (3) The student will appeal to the instructor in charge of the course. The instructor who receives the appeal will respond directly to the student.

- (4) If the student and instructor do not agree on the instructor's decision, the student may make a second appeal against the grade. The second appeal must be made through the GLA Office, not the instructor.
- (5) The response to the second appeal will be decided by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (ADAA) after the instructor and the ADAA have reviewed the grading details.
- (6) In reviewing an appealed grade, the instructor (and ADAA as necessary) may decide to raise the grade, lower the grade, or not change the grade.

8. Course Numbering System and Subject Codes (effective Spring 2023)

Course numbers are assigned to all GLA courses. It indicates the course's position in the curriculum and enables students to develop their study plans in a structured manner to fulfill their graduation requirements.

12. Subject Groups

[Foundation Courses: A minimum of 12-credit required]

This group consists of three (3) areas vital for students to make the most of liberal arts education and succeed in it: Academic Writing, Critical Thinking, and Research Skills, all of which are compulsory. Each area requires a series of courses worth two (2) semesters, so students will learn these vital skills throughout the first two (2) semesters as soon as they start at GLA.

Academic Writing:

WRT 1001, WRT 1002

Critical Thinking:

GLA 1101, GLA 1102

Research Skills:

GLA 1201, GLA 1202

The courses of Critical Thinking and Research Skills above are not sequential. Depending on the admission semester, students may take the courses with a course number of xxx2 before xxx1. These courses, worth two (2) semesters, will cover different content in these areas. Hence, students are expected to acquire comprehensive knowledge and skills after the first two (2) semesters at GLA, regardless of the order they take these courses.

The foundation courses will prepare students not only for the remainder of their academic paths, including the study abroad period at ANU but also for their future professional careers since these skills will remain essential and applicable in the workforce and industries they will be involved in.

[Introductory Courses: A minimum of 8-credit required]

This group consists of courses at 1000-level courses of specific disciplines.

To acquire knowledge and skills in each discipline systematically, transitioning from the introductory level to the intermediate/advanced level in order is extremely important. While most GLA courses at the 1000-level and 2000-level are not sequentially designed, students are encouraged to plan well and take introductory courses in the disciplines they may be interested in.

[Intermediate Courses: A minimum of 6-credit required]

This group consists of courses at 2000-level courses of specific disciplines.

Students will learn more advanced content based on the knowledge and skills acquired through the Introductory Courses. The intermediate courses function as the core of the GLA curriculum and may be closely linked to students' future paths.

While working on the intermediate courses, students are encouraged to start thinking about their research topic in the advanced courses.

[Advanced Courses: A minimum of 4-credit required]

This group consists of research courses at the 3000-level.

Required course:

GLA 3001

Elective:

GLA 3998

Based on the knowledge and skills acquired through the introductory and intermediate courses, students will develop individual research topics and work on projects under direct supervision by GLA faculty. Students will follow relevant disciplinary, and interdisciplinary, conventions to learn how to formulate a research question, create a research plan, conduct a research project, and present results.

Students must enroll in and pass GLA 3001 within the last two semesters, separately in the Spring and Fall semesters.

While it is not required, students considering applying for a graduate program are strongly encouraged to take GLA 3998 in addition to GLA 3001 to strengthen their academic experiences within their undergraduate studies. Under supervision and mentorship by GLA faculty, students will work on more intensive research to produce their thesis or equivalent final project in GLA 3998.

Throughout their academic career at GLA, it is always best recommended that students consult an academic advisor to develop their academic paths and course selection relevant to their future academic, professional, and/or personal goals. Students should meet with an advisor at least once every semester when they think of the following semester's plan.

[Japanese Language Courses: A minimum of 0-credit required]

1. Eligibility :

All GLA students are eligible for taking Japanese courses in 2023 onwards.

2. Course Lineup :

Students who wish to learn the Japanese Language are highly encouraged to take the following courses. Extra-curricular courses with no credits may be offered additionally. For more details of course registration, it is required for students to follow instructions on Registration Guidebook released in every semester.

G8-a and G9-a: offered in Spring Semester

G8-b and G9-b: offered in Fall Semester

3. Placement :

Students will be placed in an appropriate level based on the following chart.

Type	Cases	Placement	Required Procedure *1
A	Students who have never studied Japanese before (including before university admission).	Students will be automatically placed in "JPNS 1001 Elementary Japanese 1".	1) Japanese Language Proficiency Questionnaire
B	Students who have studied Japanese before but have never taken Japanese language courses at Ritsumeikan University.	Students will be placed in an appropriate level based on the result of a questionnaire, a Japanese placement test AND an interview by a coordinator.	All the procedures below are required. 1) Japanese Language Proficiency Questionnaire 2) Japanese Placement Test (ROJPT) 3) An interview by a Japanese course coordinator
C	Students in their 2 nd and above semester who passed a Japanese course before	Students will be automatically placed in the course(s) of the next level by applying in each semester.	1) Japanese Course Application
	Students in their 2 nd and above semester who failed a Japanese course before	Students will be automatically placed in the same course(s) as in the last semester you took a Japanese course by applying in each semester.	1) Japanese Course Application

*1 Details of procedures may be subject to change in the following years. Please refer to the Japanese Placement & Registration Guidebook available on the GLA website.

13. Lectures and Tutorials

College of Global Liberal Arts offers mainly 4-credit and 2-credit courses: 4-credit courses meet twice a week (a total of 30 classes per semester), and 2-credit courses meet once a week (a total of 15 classes per semester).

Classes are delivered by a combination of “lecture” and “tutorial.” “Lecture” emphasizes interaction between students and course instructors. In “tutorial,” students are divided into small groups, and classes focus on discussion among students and group work. Students will consolidate their knowledge and acquire problem-solving skills through the repetition of these different class delivery modes.

III Dual Degree Program

1. Program Overview

All students will enroll in the dual degree program to earn two bachelor's degrees from RU and ANU within four years. At RU, they will study Liberal Arts to become a proactive member of the global society in the 21st century. At ANU, they will experience the dynamism of globalization firsthand and deepen their studies of the Asia-Pacific region. Through this program's close coordination between the two universities, GLA students will attain an international and pluralistic education. When students complete their individual requirements for both universities, they will earn a bachelor's degree in Global Liberal Arts from RU and a bachelor's degree in Asia-Pacific Affairs from ANU.

The time studying abroad at ANU in the dual degree program means more than just a year away from RU. It is closely connected to students' learning before and after the study abroad period. Students will start studying in Australia after building a solid foundation with ANU faculty through the ANU courses offered at RU's Osaka Ibaraki Campus (OIC) during the second years in Japan. Upon their return, they will continue taking the remaining ANU courses at OIC, including Capstone Studies, culminating their three-year studies at both universities.

Students must demonstrate academic ability and English proficiency (called "Hurdles") before taking ANU courses and to remain in the Dual Degree program. Students who fail to pass the Hurdles will continue their studies in the Single Degree Track. They will be awarded a Bachelor of Global Liberal Arts from RU only.

2. Bachelor of Asia-Pacific Affairs Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of a Bachelor of Asia-Pacific Affairs degree, students will have the skills and knowledge to:

- 1) Demonstrate a thorough knowledge of the historical and contemporary dimensions of politics and government, international relations and security, conflict and peace-building, and history and cultural identity in the Asia-Pacific region;
- 2) Use concepts and methods from the social sciences and humanities to develop, review, analyze, and synthesize knowledge regarding the Asia-Pacific region and its roles in the world;
- 3) Reflect critically on the principal factors that determine the major political, security, diplomatic, and historical issues in the Asia-Pacific region;
- 4) Engage with the Asia-Pacific region's diversity in meaningful ways;
- 5) Critically apply theoretical frameworks and research techniques to understanding key issues in the Asia-Pacific region.

3. Courses and Units Required by ANU

To earn the Bachelor of Asia-Pacific Affairs, students must earn the following units in each subject group at ANU. In general, students take at least 16 ANU courses both at RU and ANU. These courses will fulfill graduation requirements for both universities.

TABLE 3: Credits required to earn the Bachelor of Asia-Pacific Affairs

ANU Subject Groups	Courses and Units Required		Total
Compulsory Courses (Core)	4 courses (= 24 units)	16 courses (= 96 units)	192 units
Politics and Government Stream	1-2 courses (= 6-12 units)
International Relations and Security Stream	1-2 courses (= 6-12 units)
Conflict and Peace-building Stream	1-2 courses (= 6-12 units)
History and Cultural Identity Stream	1-2 courses (= 6-12 units)
Japanese Language courses	0-4 courses (= 0-24 units)
Compulsory Courses (Capstone)	4 courses (= 24 units)
Transferred from RU	96 units

4. Course Work Schedule

Regardless of their admission semester, either Spring or Fall, students in the dual degree program will take RU courses only at OIC for the first two semesters. Generally, students will be assessed for Academic & English Hurdles at the end of the second semester upon completing the first 32 credits from RU courses.

If they pass Academic & English Hurdles, students admitted in the Spring will take RU courses and ANU courses simultaneously at OIC during their third semesters. Students admitted in the Fall will do the same during their third and fourth semesters. ANU courses offered at OIC will be taught by the ANU faculty.

After the semesters described above, students will study abroad at ANU for 2 semesters from the following July (fourth and fifth for Spring-admitted students and fifth and sixth semesters for Fall-admitted students). During these semesters, students will take 4 ANU courses per semester. In general, ANU's academic calendar is as follows, including exams:

Semester 1: Late February through Late June

Semester 2: Late July through Late November

After completing two semesters at ANU, students return to Japan and resume their studies at OIC in the following Spring semester to complete the remainder of their degree requirements for both universities. There will be a gap period (no classes) between the end of November and March. Students may participate in extracurricular programs within or outside the university to explore their academic and career options.

*1: Students taking leave or who have passed the Hurdle requirement in their second year or later will have a schedule that differs from the above.

*2: In the case of taking 4-credit courses

5. Hurdles

To be eligible to take ANU courses, students must demonstrate academic ability and English proficiency. The Hurdle assessment occurs only once throughout students' academic careers at the end of the semester when they have completed the first 32 RU credits with grades of between A+ and F. Withdrawn courses are not included in this calculation.

Students who fail the Hurdle requirement cannot remain in the dual degree program to pursue ANU's Bachelor of Asia-Pacific Affairs degree. Such students can continue their studies in the Single Degree Track, which consists of RU courses only. They will be awarded RU's Bachelor of Global Liberal Arts only.

1) Academic Hurdle

The Academic Hurdle requires that students earn an adjusted ANU GPA of at least 4.000, which is calculated based on the student's grades for all RU courses taken up to the end of the semester when the Hurdle requirement is assessed (see TABLE 5). Inquire for details at the Academic Advising Center.

TABLE 5: Correspondence Table for RU and ANU Score

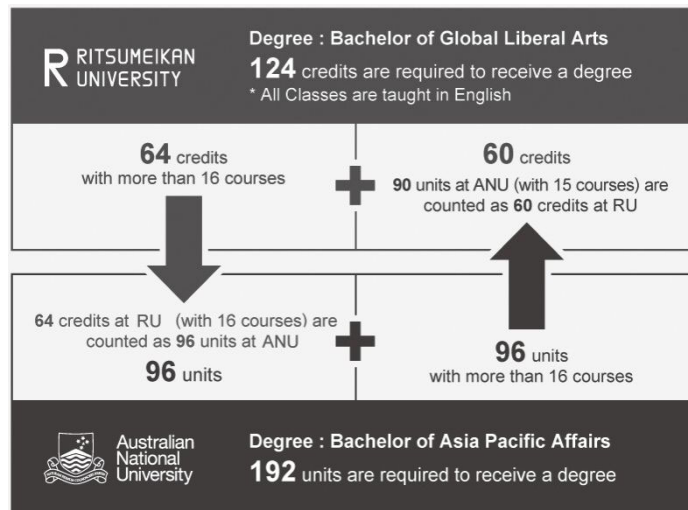

Numeric Score	Letter Grade	GPA Score for RU	GPA Score for ANU
Over 90%	A+	5	7
80–89%	A	4	6
70–79%	B	3	5
60–69%	C	2	4
Under 59%	F	0	0

2) English Language Hurdle

GLA accepts the following English language tests for students to pass the English Hurdle. Required minimum scores are specified below.

- TOEFL iBT®: An overall score of 80, with a minimum of 20 in Reading and Writing and 18 in Speaking and Listening. (MyBest scores™ are not accepted.)
- IELTS (Academic Module): An overall band score of 6.5 with a minimum of 6.0 in each component of the test.

	Other English language tests accepted by the college include Cambridge CAE Advanced (Post 2015) and PTE Academic. For further information on our English requirements, please contact the GLA Office at glapost@st.ritsumei.ac.jp.
6. English as a Second Language (ESL)	In order to continue their studies in the dual degree program, students who do not have a sufficient English test score at the time of enrollment must earn the required minimum score before being assessed for the Academic Hurdle requirement. To assist students in achieving it, GLA may offer an extracurricular non-credit bearing ESL courses.
7. Course Withdrawal	Students who are yet to be assessed for the hurdle requirements and wish to discontinue a course after the course cancellation (drop) period ends may withdraw during the period specified below without academic penalty. Withdrawing from courses during the prescribed period may have serious consequences for academic progress to the degree, financial aid and/or scholarship eligibility, and (for international students) visa requirements. Students must consult with their instructors and academic advisors before withdrawing from a course unless the course in question has yet to start. The process of discontinuing enrollment in a course after the end of the course cancellation (drop) period until the withdrawal due date, usually the end of week eleven, is called Course Withdrawal. The specific due date to withdraw from a course is indicated on the Academic Calendar. Students are financially responsible for courses from which they have withdrawn. Students already assessed for Academic & English hurdles cannot withdraw from courses. Students who changed to the Single Degree track before the Academic & English hurdle assessments cannot withdraw from courses, either. [Procedure] <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Between weeks six and eight of each semester, the College conducts the Mid-Term Progress Rating, where all instructors teaching GLA courses are asked to assess students' performance until that point and identify students at risk of not earning at least a grade of C based on the grading policies on the course syllabi. 2. Academic advisors will contact students via the Academic Advising Database should they have been identified to be at risk. 3. Students identified above are encouraged to meet with the course instructor as soon as feasible and discuss how to improve their performance for the remainder of the semester. 4. If students decide to withdraw from a course, they must schedule an appointment with an academic advisor to discuss the implications of withdrawal. Students must obtain signatures from both the academic advisor and the course instructor on the Registration/Schedule Revision Form and submit it to the GLA Office by the given due date. 5. After processing the withdrawal, the GLA Office will notify the students.
8. Single Degree Track	The dual degree program with ANU is fully incorporated into the curriculum of GLA. Students will earn degrees from both universities when graduating from this program. However, if students fail to pass the Hurdle requirement, they must change to the Single Degree Track and will earn a bachelor's degree from RU only. Students must consult an academic advisor to discuss their study plan after the change. Students on the single degree track cannot take ANU courses, but may participate in a study abroad program offered by RU. Each program has different requirements for participation. Contact the OIC International Center for more details.
9. Credit Transfer between RU and ANU	Students in the dual degree program will take 16 courses (or more) and earn credits at RU and ANU, respectively. These credits will fulfill graduation requirements for both universities. The units earned at ANU will transfer to RU at the end of each semester, according to the "Transfer Equivalency List from ANU to RU" (Table 6).

The transfer of RU credits toward the Bachelor of Asia Pacific Affairs will be administered separately by ANU. The ANU courses listed in Table 6 reflect information as of February 2023 but may become subject to change due to unforeseen circumstances. Check "Transfer Equivalency List from ANU to RU" on the GLA website for the most timely information. All ANU courses must be completed with grades of HD, D, CR, P, and/or PS to transfer to RU.

TABLE 6: Transfer Equivalency List from ANU to RU

The following equivalency table indicates how ANU courses will transfer to RU and fulfill GLA's program requirements.

The following equivalency table reflects information available at GLA in February 2023. For the most recent information, refer to the GLA website (http://en.ritsumeikai.ac.jp/gla/academics/curriculum/transfer_equivalency_list/).

IV Student Resources

1. The Academic Advising Center (AAC)

Students are responsible for checking the university email, manaba+R, and the Academic Advising Database periodically. Students will be responsible for inconveniences that may have caused by not checking the resources listed above.

“Your Success Matters.”

GLA students are expected to develop their study plans for four years of their academic programs to achieve their academic goals and pursue their post-graduate paths. However, students' interests may change during their careers at GLA due to several factors: a new interest piqued in a particular course, exposure to novel ideas during study at ANU, or stimulating experiences outside of the classroom. Accordingly, students may reconsider their study plans to better fit their changing ambitions.

To accommodate students' goals, the GLA curriculum has built-in flexibility that enables students to change their academic plans in accordance with their developing interests. To support them in conceiving and achieving their goals, students should consult with the GLA Academic Advising Center (AAC) in a timely manner every semester.

“Because We Care.”

GLA is committed to providing academic support to every student via the AAC. The mission of the AAC is to help students navigate the GLA curriculum, make appropriate referrals to other campus resources based on students' needs, and make sure students remain on track for graduation, all through individual guidance. In addition to its primary role of working with students, the AAC also works closely with the GLA leadership team to enrich the educational environment of GLA.

“We Advise, You Decide.”

Students are valued as the most important stakeholders in GLA's educational community. To support students in this capacity, the AAC is responsible for providing students with accurate information about curricular matters, monitoring students' academic progress throughout their study at GLA, and helping them make informed decisions about their academic goals and aspirations. The AAC does not offer tutoring support or provide mental health services, but can direct students to other resources on campus and supports them in their utilization of these services.

Successful advising requires mutual respect, and AAC advisors, as well as all staff and faculty at GLA, are committed to taking each student's needs seriously. In turn, GLA students are expected to take responsibility for their conduct and learning. Students are responsible for making advising appointments on their initiative, being active and engaged throughout the advising process, and being prepared for each advising session.

Information about the AAC and other related topics is provided on the GLA website.

2. The GLA Office

The GLA Office plays vital roles in all aspects of the college's administration by collaborating with the Dean's leadership team and other staff and faculty inside and outside the college. Being a part of the Division of Academic Affairs, the GLA Office is responsible for, but not limited to, the following functions:

- Student recruitment and admissions
- New student orientation
- Registration & course withdrawal
- Transfer between RU and ANU
- Curriculum, syllabus & course schedule management
- Faculty support
- Student support (including referral to other support units on campus)

When GLA students need assistance but do not know where to contact, they should contact the GLA Office first for the necessary guidance.
